

Clearwater Mutual Aide Co-op (CMAC)

Emergency #1-866-950-2622

CMAC Objective:

This mutual aid group has been developed to enhance public protection and communication through mutual aid response of member companies in the designated area.

CMAC is an organization comprised of oil and gas operators, supported by government agencies, who have come together via mutual aid understandings to pool resources and assist each other during emergency situations.

CMAC's boundaries are shown in this map:

CMAC's emergency phone number (1-866-950-CMAC) is manned 24-hours a day by an answering service located in Rocky Mountain House. Complaints and emergency calls will be directed to the appropriate members company and/or government agencies as required. If a call is received from outside the CMAC boundaries or relates to a non-member's property, calls will be directed to the EUB.

Mutual Aid organizations such as CMAC provide benefits to members including:

- improved response time to emergencies
- increased access to resources, personnel and equipment
- improved communication between operators, the public and local government agencies

- Increased public awareness.

Current CMAC Industry Members:

Apache Exploration

Husky Energy

Northrock Resources Ltd.

Shell Canada

ConocoPhillips

Keyera Energy

TransCanada

Talisman Energy

Devon Canada

PennWest Energy Trust

Petro-Canada

CMAC also has a number of associate members including: Clearwater County, David Thompson Health Region, the EUB, Alberta Emergency Management Agency, Town of Rocky Mountain House, Alberta Sustainable Resource Development, Oras Communications, Alberta Poison Centre and H<sub>2</sub>S Safety Services.